BIO

I am Brenden Davis, a multi-disciplinary visual artist specializing in graphic design, motion graphics, and 2D animation. My practice is rooted in strategic storytelling and driven by a passion for creating work that resonates with purpose and impact.

I believe effective design combines thoughtful concept development with striking visuals to engage, inform, and inspire. Through each project I aim to craft experiences that are both visually appealing and deeply meaningful.

WHAT IS HOUSE BILL 1193?

House Bill 1193 (HB 1193) is a proposed law that targets diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) efforts in public education. If passed, it would prohibit public schools, community colleges, and universities across the state from creating or maintaining DEI programs, offices, or trainings. Supporters argue the bill ensures fairness by focusing on individual merit, while critics warn it could dismantle essential efforts to support students and educators from marginalized communities.

KEY PROVISIONS (PART 1)

Ban on DEI Programs and Offices:
Public schools, community colleges, and universities are prohibited from establishing or maintaining DEI offices or programs

Restrictions on Hiring and Admissions:
These institutions cannot require or solicit diversity statements from job or academic program applicants, nor can they give preferential treatment based on race, sex, color, ethnicity, gender identity, or sexual orientation.

Limitations on DEI Training:
Mandatory participation in DEI training is prohibited unless explicitly approved in writing by the institution's legal counsel and governing board to ensure compliance with legal obligations.

KEY PROVISIONS (PART 2)

Prohibition of Divisive Concepts:
The bill bans the promotion of certain concepts deemed divisive, including ideas suggesting inherent superiority or responsibility based on race, sex, or other federally protected classes.

Complaint and Enforcement Mechanism:
Governing boards are required to establish procedures for investigating and addressing violations of the act, with findings reported within 45 days to the complainant and the institution involved.

WHY IT MATTERS

Supporters of HB 1193 say it promotes fairness by ensuring that hiring and admissions decisions are based solely on individual merit and qualifications. However, many educators, students, and advocates are raising concerns about the bill's broader impact. They argue that by removing DEI programs, restricting training, and silencing discussions about identity, privilege, and systemic inequality, the bill could create less inclusive and less supportive learning environments. Critics believe HB 1193 may make it harder for marginalized students to feel represented, protected, and empowered. This isn't just about policy. It's about who gets to belong, thrive, and shape the future of education in Mississippi.
